MONDAY 19 APRIL 19:30

Lesson plan 19:30 Welcome, 19:40 More about questions and negatives, 20:00 Simple story, 20:30 Chat (in English, with a little Cornish thrown in) about Cornish language and culture

First let's consolidate some prepositions

Coursebook pages 33-34

EUS, USY, USONS

In a question yma becomes eus if the subject is indefinite, usy if the subject is definite; and ymowns always becomes usons in questions. These forms must also be used after nyns in negative statements.

In West Cornwall we sometimes find j instead of s. So you will also encounter ujy, ujons, nynj.

PRACTYS NAW

Coursebook pages 35-36

For reference, here are all the long forms of the present tense of verb 'to be' (excluding alternative forms that you should not worry about for now).

STATEMENTS

yth esof vy yth esta
yma ev / hy / noun subject

yth eson ny
yth esowgh why
ymowns y

NEGATIVE STATEMENTS

nyns esof vy
nyns esta
nyns eus + indefinite noun subject nyns usy ev / hy / definite noun subject nyns eson ny
nyns esowgh why
nyns usons y

QUESTIONS

esof vy
esta eus + indefinite noun subject usy ev / usy hy / definite noun subject eson ny
esowgh why
usons y

NEGATIVE QUESTIONS

a nyns esof vy
a nyns esta
a nyns eus + indefinite noun subject a nyns usy ev / hy / definite noun subject a nyns eson ny
a nyns esowgh why
a nyns usons y

Eâ is 'yes'. Nâ is 'no'. But if you are asked a negative question and you want to say 'yes' to contradict it, you usually need something stronger than eâ. You can say ogh esof (ogh ov if short form is appropriate) or an contrary yn tien.

Note that contrary is stressed on the second syllable in Cornish, not the first.

In preparation for the lesson, check the grammar above, then read the story quietly until you think you've got the hang of it. Use the Vocabulary at the back of the coursebook to look up words. Read the story aloud as well, to practise your pronunciation.
